The Center for Religious Immigration and Protection Seeks Legal Interns for 2012

The Center for Religious Immigration and Protection, a section of the Catholic Legal Immigration Network, Inc. (CLINIC), is seeking legal interns to assist its immigration attorneys. We represent Catholic Dioceses and Religious Orders in bringing foreign-born religious workers into the U.S. to work for the Catholic Church. The legal intern will:

- Receive diverse immigration law assignments
- Be a part of a busy non-profit organization, with six attorneys on the Center's staff
- Engage in case work including:
 - applications for nonimmigrant visas at U.S. consulates abroad;
 - applications for change of status or extension of status in the U.S.;
 - applications for legal permanent residence;
 - case management and client contact;
 - and legal research opportunities.
- Training on each aspect of immigration law will be provided

If interested, please e-mail cover letter, resume, writing sample, and references
